

From: Jonathan Levy <Jonathan.Levy@cityofchicago.org>

Sent: Monday, June 26, 2023 9:59 AM

To: Steve Berlin <Steve.Berlin@cityofchicago.org>; Lisa Eilers <Lisa.Eilers@cityofchicago.org>; Richard Superfine <Richard.Superfine@cityofchicago.org>

Cc: Eve Jennings <Eve.Jennings@cityofchicago.org>

Subject: RE: Nerdy Librarians & Chicago data

Hi Ethics Team,

I did end up speaking at this event yesterday. Items accepted were:

- The free registration to the conference. I think it was technically for the all days but I only attended yesterday.
- A few small items of the usual sort while walking the exhibit floor. I doubt any of them were worth more than $5, and possibly not more than $1, and were under $10 in total. I actually have forgotten what they are since I threw them into a bag (inexpensive tote bag that I guess counts as part of the registration) that is at home but I can make a list tonight if it matters.
- Several cups of water from water coolers set up for the conference. That feels sort of between using the water fountain (which I would not have bothered to mention) and a bottle of water (which I likely would have mentioned) so I figured I would play it safe here.

Thank you.

Jon