MAYOR EMANUEL ANNOUNCES THAT ABE'S MARKET NATURAL GOODS WILL RELOCATE
CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS TO CHICAGO AS PART OF EXPANSION AND TECH JOBS GROWTH

Abe's Market opens its new facility in River North today to gain better access to workforce talent

Mayor Emanuel and Abe's Market announced today that Abe's Market will move its headquarters to Chicago this month, as the natural goods company continues its path of growth and expansion.

"I welcome Abe's Market to Chicago and commend the company on its choice of Chicago for its corporate headquarters," said Mayor Emanuel. "Chicago has the workforce talent that will help them further their business, and our business environment will welcome this growing technology company as it creates job opportunities throughout the City of Chicago."

The announcement of the corporate headquarters relocation comes as the national unemployment figure dipped to 7.8 percent today, the lowest it has been since January 2009. Over 870,000 Americans gained employment in the last month.

Abe's Market is an ecommerce company specializing in natural and organic products will move their headquarters and open in River North. With an eye to be part of a bigger tech community with access to talent to support their growth plans, Abe's Market will use its new Chicago location to expand its online business.

“Abe’s Market looks forward to joining Chicago’s global business hub,” said Richard Demb, CEO and co-founder of Abe’s Market. “As part of the expanding tech community, Chicago will provide us with the talent and support we need to be successful. Abe’s Market is focused on building a unique relationship with customers who appreciate better products. As we continue to use technology to deliver unique, natural items to a wider market while buyers have confidence in the products they purchase.”

Abe’s Market will be located in a 3,400 square-foot facility in River North, located at 430 W Erie. The company will be bringing 15-20 jobs to Chicago in the next few months.

The City of Chicago is focused on attracting corporate headquarters as part of the Plan for Economic Growth and Jobs, produced by World Business Chicago earlier this year at Mayor Emanuel’s request. Abe’s Market joins McGladrey, Federal Savings Bank, GE Transportation, ThyssenKrupp, Sara Lee, Sagence Partners, and Motorola Mobility as companies that have decided to relocate their corporate or North American Headquarters to the city. World Business Chicago worked extensively and directly with Abe’s Market to help the company move to Chicago and find a suitable location for its headquarters.

Mayor Emanuel has stood with more than 50 companies that have announced nearly 25,000 jobs in Chicago during his tenure.
