CITY COUNCIL PASSES RESOLUTION CALLING GOVERNOR RAUNER TO ESTABLISH ILLINOIS DREAMER BILL OF RIGHTS

The Chicago City Council today passed a resolution that calls on Illinois Governor Bruce Rauner and the General Assembly to establish an Illinois Dreamers Bill of Rights. The resolution, co-sponsored by Mayor Rahm Emanuel, Chairman Edward Burke and the Latino Caucus, urges the State to enact a bill that would enshrine protections for Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) – also known as Dreamers – that includes access to state financial aid and scholarships, professional licenses and certifications for jobs and additional protections against deportation.

“President Trump is turning his back on Dreamers and doubling down on dangerous, divisive anti-immigrant policies which would tear families apart, deport law-abiding children to countries they have never known and break America's promise to bright, hard-working young people who are part of the fabric of American society,” said Mayor Emanuel. “Not only will Chicago continue to welcome dreamers, we are calling on the State to do all it can to remain a welcoming place for the more than 40,000 DACA youth that live, work, and study in Illinois.”

On September 5, the Trump Administration formally announced the end of DACA giving those whose status expires one month to apply for a new two-year permit. On October 1, Mayor Emanuel and 44 mayors urged the Department of Homeland Security to extend the arbitrary October 5 deadline for DACA renewals.

The DACA program allows qualified undocumented youth that apply to seek higher education, work and engage in military service. Nearly 800,000 Dreamers have applied since the program began in 2012, contributing billions in taxes, Social Security, and Medicare.

The resolution calls on the Governor to enact the following to protect Dreamers:

Ensure that Dreamers can remain in their jobs:

In Illinois, Dreamers can become bar-certified attorneys but lack access to licenses and certifications in other fields such as health care, education, social work, and real estate. Governor Rauner and the Illinois General Assembly should change the law to allow Dreamers to enter additional professions and remain in those professions even after DACA expires.

Strengthen deportation protections for Dreamers:

In December of 2016, Mayor Emanuel invested $1.3 million in a legal defense fund that has provided assistance to more than 14,000 Chicago residents and trained 350 Chicagoans to serve as “community navigators” that help guide their neighborhoods through the immigration process. Illinois must establish its own legal protection fund to build upon the protections offered to Chicago residents through the City’s fund.

Tighten protections in the newly-passed Illinois Trust Act:

Governor Rauner recently signed the Illinois Trust Act into law and established important protections for undocumented residents. The law prohibits local governments from detaining undocumented residents on behalf of ICE. At the same time, the Trust Act allows home rule municipalities to opt out of the law and permits governments to communicate with ICE about detained individuals prior to their release. Governor Rauner and the General Assembly should strengthen the Trust Act to prohibit any cooperation or communication with ICE when it comes to Dreamers and disallow any local governments from exempting themselves from these new Dreamer protections.

Allow more Dreamers to go to college:

Today, the State of Illinois does not allow Dreamers to access financial aid or scholarships to attend college at a more affordable price. As part of the Emanuel Administration’s Star Scholar Program, Dreamers that graduate from the Chicago Public Schools with a B average can attend any of the seven City Colleges of Chicago with a full tuition scholarship that covers books. Governor Rauner must follow Chicago’s lead by fighting to pass the Student Access Bill (SB2196), which would open up state aid programs to nearly 2,000 Dreamers. And the State should also review and strengthen tax incentives for individuals to donate to scholarship funds that support Dreamers.

The resolution is the latest in a series of actions the Emanuel Administration has taken to remind all residents that they are welcome in the City of Chicago.

On December 7, Mayor Emanuel presented a letter to President Trump urging him to continue the DACA Program until Congress modernized the immigration system and provided a more permanent form of relief for the young people who were brought to the United States before they were 16.

The Mayor also established the Chicago Legal Protection Fund in response to a critical need to increase legal services for immigrant communities across the City amidst deportation threats in a post-election era. Using $1.3 million in unspent property tax rebate funds, the Fund has served more than 14,000 immigrants through community-based outreach, education, legal consultations, and legal representation, including courtroom representation. Additionally, the Fund has

This spring, the Mayor launched the One Chicago public education campaign with the goal of taking the negative rhetoric out of the current immigration story. The campaign tells real life stories of people who have traveled from around the world to call Chicago home, helping to visually depict the City’s promise that everyone is welcome here no matter their race, religion, color or background.
