Dear [REDACTED]

In response to a request for an advisory opinion concerning the status of your current employment under the City ethics laws, the Board of Ethics has determined that your current activities with the firm [REDACTED] do not violate any provisions of laws currently in effect and would not violate the post-employment restrictions of the new Ethics Ordinance effective August 1.

We have reviewed information you provided in your letter of May 22, 1987, together with information provided by [REDACTED]. This information indicates that as an engineer with [REDACTED] your responsibilities do not include participation in any transaction or proceedings with the City and that you are not involved in any work which would affect a change in the 40 year contract between the Du Page Water Commission and the City. In light of these facts, your current employment responsibilities would not constitute a violation of the post-employment provisions of the new Ethics Ordinance. However, the Board recommends that you continue to avoid participating in transactions with the City concerning matters of water supply for at least one year and that you permanently avoid any potential work on the Chicago-Du Page contract. Also, please note that the Ordinance prohibits both current and former employees from disclosing confidential information gained during their City service.

We greatly appreciate your cooperation in our efforts to fulfill the request for an advisory opinion concerning the application of post-employment restrictions. Please note that we have contacted [REDACTED] to inform him that we have
